

WCCS Recommends

Books for Bedtime

Franklin's Flying Bookshop

Jen Campbell

The story of a little girl, Luna, and a dragon, Franklin, who share their love of stories by opening a flying bookshop – on the dragon's back!

Croc and Bird

Alexis Deacon

Croc and Bird are eggs that hatch together – one a bird, one a crocodile. Feeding, building a home, flying, climbing and dancing together they become as brothers, until they arrive at a lake of crocodiles and a forest of birds, and separate.

What strange bonds of fraternity will lead Bird to be reunited with Croc, whom he finds crouching in a tree?

The Great Race – The Story of the Chinese Zodiac

Dawn Casey

The story of how the Jade Emperor chose animals to symbolise twelve calendar years, including which animal rules the year of the reader's birth.

(The lack of definite articles adds a certain authenticity!)

Dream Animals – A Bedtime Journey

Emily Winfield Martin

'You'll be carried to your dream tonight on wing or paw or fin.'

Animals from long ago appear by starlight and take children to their dreams in this enchanting book, written in rhyming couplets.

Whatever Next!

Jill Murphy

Does Baby Bear really fly up to the moon, via the chimney, have a picnic with an owl, and return for bath time?

Mrs Bear isn't convinced, but the reader gets to know the full, extraordinary story.

All the Ways to be Smart

Davina Bell & Allison Colpoys

Learn all the ways a little boy or girl can be smart: from rhyming and telling time, to building cubbies, and making slime; from growing, throwing and bubble-blowing, to asking how, and what and why.

Saint Francis and the Wolf

Richard Egielski

The town of Gubbia is being terrorised by a fierce wolf! A brave knight, an army of warriors and a mighty war machine fail to appease him, until St Francis appears and speaks to the wolf in his own language.

Saint Francis and the Wolf is a tale of friendship, understanding and living at peace with your neighbours.

WCCS Recommends more at www.choirschool.com